

HEWITT SAYS MORGAN WILL NOT END STRIKE

Ex-Mayor Positively Declares Financier Is Taking No Part in Efforts at Settlement.

ALL BROWN ON MITCHELL.

Mr. Hewitt Asserts that Operators Are Willing to Deal with Men, but Not with Strike Leader.

Ex-Mayor Abram S. Hewitt said today he knew absolutely that J. Pierpont Morgan would not interfere in the settlement of the coal strike. He said there would be no arbitration between the operators and President Mitchell on the strike.

The operators, Mr. Hewitt added, would not doubt be willing to take up any grievances with their own men, but would decline to have anything to do with Mr. Mitchell.

At the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., the proposed conference on Saturday between Gov. Stone, of Pennsylvania, and President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, was designated as "more politics."

Operators of the coal roads denied the story from Philadelphia that President Baer, of the Reading, was about to resign on account of the alleged interference of J. Pierpont Morgan in the management of affairs connected with the strike.

It was asserted that while Mr. Morgan would undoubtedly like to see the difficulty adjusted he has not shown, so far, any disposition to force a settlement.

Mr. Hamilton, son-in-law of Morgan, characterized the statement that Baer was to resign as "trash."

In Wall street the general impression is that the conference cannot possibly have any result looking toward a settlement of the strike by a compromise. In spite of these it is believed the end is near. As the operators still declare they will maintain an uncompromising attitude there would seem to be no basis for this belief except a general impression that the strike is on the verge of collapse.

It was learned that the operators have determined on a plan to reward the several thousands of mine employees who have remained loyal throughout the strike by giving them the best paying and easiest jobs at their disposal.

PRESIDENT BAER DENIES THREAT TO RESIGN.

(Special to The Evening World.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 11.—President Baer, of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, this afternoon emphatically denied that he would retire from the presidency of the road in the event of J. Pierpont Morgan interfering with the coal strike.

He considered the report so preposterous that he declined to discuss it. "You can say most positively," said President Baer, "that the thing is absurd. Nothing of the kind has ever been contemplated or even thought of, and the report is without the slightest foundation."

QUAY PAYS ANOTHER VISIT TO MR. BAER.

(Special to The Evening World.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 11.—In another effort to settle the coal strike, Senator Quay called again today upon President Baer, of the Reading Road, and P. A. B. Widener. He intimated that the Republican vote would be seriously reduced this fall if the strike is not ended at once.

URGE GOVERNOR TO CALL LEGISLATURE.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 11.—A committee appointed at the convention of the People's Alliance in Hazleton today called on Gov. Stone and urged him to call an extra session of the Legislature to end the coal strike.

They suggested the enactment of laws for compulsory arbitration, better control of foreign corporations doing business in Pennsylvania, and the enforcement of the sixteenth and seventeenth articles of the Constitution.

SAGE BUSY AND IN GOOD HEALTH.

Aged Millionaire Surprises Colleagues at a Bank Directors' Meeting.

Russell Sage attended to business as usual today in his Wall street counting-room, seemingly little the worse for his indisposition of yesterday. He arrived later than usual, but that was because he started the day by attending a meeting of the Fifth Avenue Bank directors uptown, thereby earning $10 before he reached his office.

Mr. Sage left his home at Cedarhurst at 8 o'clock this morning. The financier was driven to the Lawrence station, where he took the 8.25 o'clock train for New York.

Surprised His Colleagues.
At the Thirty-fourth street ferry-house Mr. Sage took a cross-town car, transferring at Madison avenue, to ride to Forty-sixth street. He alighted there and walked to the bank, where his presence was a great surprise to his brother directors. They had been discussing his alleged illness when he walked in, smiling, and announced himself ready for business.

"Want to know how it happened?" he said, with a chuckle which didn't indicate even a reminiscence of colic. "Well, the newspapers had it all wrong. It wasn't apples or cantaloupes or peaches, or all of them in combination. What a reckless old man you must think I am. Now, it was nothing of the sort. I didn't have colic. I am very careful about my diet, as a man of my years has to be."

He Grew Suddenly Weak.
"I felt well leaving home, but on the ferry between Long Island City and Thirty-fourth street I grew suddenly weak. In my four score and six years I never felt a seizure like that before. When I left the ferry I got a street car and rode to my home and sent for Dr. Munn. He gave me slight stimulants and told me not to go downtown. I soon felt all right, and sent for my secretary and did business at my home for the rest of the day. I was just as well as ever before I started home, and I feel all right to-day, only I am a little weak."

Some one asked Mr. Sage when he thought the colic strike would end. "Not right away," he answered. "Not inside of ten days. But the end is in sight. Things cannot go on in the present way much longer."

GIRL HEROINE IN BOAT WRECK.

Miss Daisy Green Kept Miss Mabel King's Head Above Water Until Help Came.

RESCUED BY L. P. ADAMS.

Miss Daisy and Miss Mabel King, pretty girls of Flushing, L. I., owe their rescue from drowning today to Leo P. Adams, a young man who is connected with the banking house of Charles Minzenheimer & Co., No. 35 Wall street.

The young women were sailing a catboat on Flushing Bay when a sudden puff of wind carried away the rigging. The falling boom struck Miss King on the side of the head as she and her companion fell overboard.

Miss King was unconscious and would have sunk but for the promptness of Miss Green, who is an expert swimmer. She seized Miss King by the hair and kept her head above water.

Mr. Adams, who resides at Elmhurst, saw the accident. He got into a boat and rowed to the young women. Miss Green was very nearly exhausted when Adams reached her. He lifted Miss King into his boat and then took Miss Green out of the water.

Miss Green fainted when the boat reached the shore. A physician restored her consciousness. The young women were taken in a carriage to their homes.

"Oh, I just pulled the young women into the boat," said Mr. Adams modestly, when an Evening World reporter asked him to tell of the rescue.

POOL-ROOM DECISION A STAY

Counsel Holds that No Such Case Can Be Tried in Lower Courts.

The pool-room decision of Justice Foster acted as a stay in Jefferson Market Court today when the cases of three pool-rooms were arrested in a raid in East Fifteenth street last month were called.

Lawyer Moss, of the firm of Howe & Hummel, held that inasmuch as Justice Foster had sustained the demurrer to the indictments of Ridge Leven and Leon Stedeker, pending the decision of the Appellate Division, no pool-rooms cases could be tried in the lower courts until such decision was of record. Magistrate Foster postponed the cases in order to consult with the District Attorney.

STONE CALLS MITCHELL TO A CONFERENCE.

(Special to The Evening World.) WILKESBARRE, Sept. 11.—President Mitchell today refused to discuss the plan for ending the strike which he and Gov. Stone are to consider at Harrisburg on Saturday.

It is understood that the plan was briefly described to him yesterday by Col. W. F. Richardson, special envoy of Gov. Stone, so that he could discuss it with the District President, who are expected to arrive today.

Mr. Mitchell seems hopeful and relieved of a great weight. It is not believed that the plan has been sanctioned by J. Pierpont Morgan or suggested by him or any of the operators, but is understood to provide a means for the strikers returning to work and settling their differences afterward.

President Mitchell's views on the possibilities of compulsory arbitration are not to be obtained, nor would he express an opinion on the return of the men to work in advance of any concessions of the bank's reserve to liability in $3.50 per cent. Last week it was $3.04 per cent. Rate of discount unchanged at 3 per cent.

SHEEHAN DENIES CARROLL UNION.

Greater New York Democracy Leader Says He Is in No Combination.

FIGHT CROKER, THAT'S ALL.

John C. Sheehan denies most emphatically that he has entered into any combination with John F. Carroll or any other Tammany Hall leader.

"Any statements published to the effect that John F. Carroll and John C. Sheehan have entered into any combination is absolutely and unqualifiedly untrue," declared Mr. Sheehan to an Evening World reporter.

"I have never said the Greater New York Democracy organization was endorsing or would endorse the Carroll ticket in any district, but I have claimed that in any district, where it seemed unwise to make a straight fight, combinations should be made and have been made with anti-Crocker organizations. There is no concerted action."

"It must be understood that there is no agreement, good, bad or indifferent between myself and Mr. Carroll. Carroll is opposed to Croker and we are opposed to Croker, that end we are working together, but by no agreement."

"Nothing has been said by me as to the future management of Tammany Hall by a Committee of Five. I think I have said the Triumvirate would probably remain in charge until the regular reorganization in December."

"In regard to endorsements by the Greater New York Democracy of other tickets, I will say that each district acts for itself and upon its own judgment."

"I have been asked how Haffen stood. I replied I did not know. I have been told he was opposed to Croker, but of that I know nothing."

One of John C. Sheehan's lieutenants present when he gave out the above interview remarked:

"It will be a cold day when John C. Sheehan enrolls himself as a supporter of John F. Carroll for the leader of the Democratic party in New York."

Leader Sheehan heard the remark and looked his approval.

(Special to The Evening World.)

SHEEPSHEAD BAY, RACE TRACK, Sept. 11.—In weather, track and programme there was nothing lacking this afternoon and the large crowd that came down to the course was appreciative.

The Belle Stakes for two-year-old fillies and the Omnium Handicap were splendid features, making as good races as one would want to see. The Omnium was at a mile and a furlong and one of the best fields of the year went to the post. The track was in superb shape.

The attendance picked up a bit this afternoon. The fact that three favorites won yesterday put a little confidence into the public and that was the reason why they came down to take another chance at the bookies. Business was also better in the ring.

Reports from Starter Fitzgerald's physician this morning are encouraging. Judge McDowell said that he had reason to believe that the starter was doing nicely and that the giving of oxygen had been stopped.

Rockwater showed out of the chute in front, but Smoke went up to him and the pair raced head and head to the far turn, where Smoke blew up. Lux Casta and St. Finnan both passed her in the turn, but neither was able to catch Rockwater, who won cleverly by a length and a half from Lux Casta, who was two lengths in front of St. Finnan.

SCORE—FIRST GAME.

New York 3 0 0 0 0 0 0 3

POLO GROUNDS, Sept. 11.—The Giants won the first game by bunting five hits for three runs in the first inning. Roscoe Miller pitched a brilliant game for New York. In the second game McGinnity pitched for New York and Morrissey for Chicago.

(Special to The Evening World.)

POLO GROUNDS, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The Giants had another double-header to play this afternoon with the Chicago team.

When the last game was finished the last of the Western clubs in this city for the year of 1902 was seen. The Chicagoans after the game started for their own city, and starting on Saturday, the Giants will begin to close their season's series with the Brooklyn.

Johnny McGraw had nothing new to talk about regarding the local baseball situation. He engaged Frank Bowerman and Christy Mathewson in talks regarding their signing contracts for next year, but gained little satisfaction. However, Mathewson told a friend this afternoon that he would in all likelihood sign before to-morrow, and when McGraw was told that he was pleased.

Dan McGinnity's injured wrist was greatly improved to-day and he thought he might be able to get in one of the games this afternoon, or possibly both. Selee's team was the same old patched-up affair it was yesterday. Three pitchers helped make up the nine, and Selee was not at all hopeful of carrying off either of the games.

He had his two youngsters, Morrissey and Hardy, warm up in preparation for the pitching work, but Lundgren, the ex-collegian, also did practice work, and the duty, it appeared, would fall to the latter.

The pitching of "Dusty" Rhoades in the second game against the Giants yesterday displeased Selee so much that today he gave the youngster his ten days' notice of release.

McGraw decided on Roscoe Miller to pitch the first game, and hoped to see the ex-Detroit man win his first National League game.

Double-headers have grown monotonous to New York baseball enthusiasts.

Slagle's high fly fell to Smith. Dobbs cracked a beauty to right, but Dunn's fine stop prevented the Chicagoan getting two bases on the hit. Browne was under Kling's high lift. Dobbs failed in trying to steal second. No runs.

Browne lined out a dandy to right centre and reached third before the return of the ball. McGraw was passed by Taylor's steal. No runs.

McGraw started to steal second and Browne made a dart for the plate, only to be run down between the line drive and scored on McGinnity's third drive to left for three bases. Brodie cracked a beauty for a base and second, but was caught on a sacrifice. No runs.

Lauder got back to first all right but McGinnity dropped the throw. Smith beat out an infield hit and Lauder reached third while Tinker was fanning. Brodie fanned. Three runs.

Second Inning.

Tinker raised a fly to Smith. Murray bounced one to McGraw and died at first. Taylor's infield lift was taken by Brodie's sacrifice. No runs.

Miller was put on the retired list by Tinker. Browne fanned this time. McGraw hit the ball to right for a base. Mac was caught when he tried to steal second. No runs.

Third Inning.

Menefee's slap past Lauder was a single. Evers' knock was too hot for Smith to stop and two Chicagoans occupied bases. Both moved up while McGraw was throwing Lundgren out at first. One run.
